Congratulations to these outstanding locals...

NOMINATED FOR AUSTRALIAN WINEMAKER OF THE YEAR... Following on from being awarded James Halliday's 2007 Australian Winery of the Year, Paringa Estate's winemaker Lindsay McCall has now been nominated by Gourmet Traveller Wine Magazine as a candidate for 2007 Australian Winemaker of the Year. For Lindsay McCall and his team at Paringa Estate it's an exciting time. "To have key people within the wine industry acknowledge the level of excellence that our wine has reached and my contribution in making it is truly rewarding" said Lindsay McCall at the recent Red Hill International Cool Climate Wine Show. Paringa Estate's 2005 Reserve Pinot Noir won the Trophy for best 2005 Pinot Noir – Paringa won the same Trophy in 2006. See our Wine Country Page for more.

ARCHITECTURAL EXCELLENCE IN THE SOUTH EAST WINNER, MONTALTO VINEYARD...

Montalto was thrilled to win this award for the Commercial/Industrial section. The judges had this to say: "The jury were impressed by the sensitive siting of the building along a contour below the crest of the hill; by the way it shields parking from the views up the valley; by the way the building is approached and by the range of dining and drinking situations it sets up for enjoying the beautiful valley vineyard. The modesty of means and the generosity of spatial experiences supported convinced the jury that it was an outstanding contribution to design in the region." Congratulations go to Peter Williams and the team at Williams Boag Architects.
