Next G™ Up & Running

As the Area General Manager for the Peninsula, I frequently get asked why Telstra has built the Next G™ network and why are we closing down the CDMA network.

The answer is simple – to make sure our customers remain ahead of the game. The decision was based on global trends that showed industry users were moving away from aging CDMA technology and that Next G™ technology was quickly becoming the global technology of choice.

With Telstra's $1.1 billion investment and our technology choice, Australia now has the fastest national mobile network in the world enjoying greater coverage, faster speeds & applications like video calling & wireless broadband.

On the Peninsula we have already upgraded every existing CDMA & GSM site with the Next G™ network coverage and have further extended coverage at Cranbourne South, Langwarrin Plaza, Mornington East and Frankston Heights.

We will not switch off the CDMA network until the Next G™ network offers the same or better coverage. Telstra expects to reach this milestone in October 2007 and intends to close the CDMA mobile network on 28 January 2008.

Over the next few months we will continue to test, monitor and fine tune the Next G™ network to get it absolutely right for our customers. In the meantime, I encourage customers with Next G™ coverage issues to let the local Telstra team know by using the Bright Spot / Black Spot website at <http://www.telstra.com/coveragefeedback> or by calling Telstra on 125 111.
